INTEROCEANIC SHIP CANAL.-The announcement of the death of Lieutenant Strain at Panama recalls the magnificent enterprise with which his name is so painfully associated, and which he at one time seemed to have consigned to "the tomb of the Capulets." Every one must of course vividly remember the ill-fated expedition of that officer in search of a practicable route for a ship canal across the Isthmus of Darien, and the thrilling report in which he denounced the project as the emptiest of dreams. And few can have forgotten the disheartening effect of his report upon even the best informed and most samine friends of the scheme. It appeared as if the feasibility of an interoceanic ship canal at that point were suddenly exploded forever. Its boldest advocates were paralyzed. Even those who were not utterly silenced, were compelled to admit the futility of urging it upon the public attention until further investigation should clearly establish the mistake which they did not hesitate to attribute to Lieutenant Strain as the fountain of all his thick disasters. Dr. Black, of London, to whose efforts the expedition was chiefly owing, and on the strength of whose representations we onrselves warmly commended it, was especially convinced that Lieutenant Strain had missed the route he undertook to verify, and declared that the Lieutenant had actually at tempted to cross the Isthmus by a line parallel with the coast. Yet, although he fortified this declaration with a variety of indisputable facts and by appeal to the highest scientific anthority, so great was the sensation produced by the calamities of the expedition, set forth in harrowing style, that it all went for nothing. The great enterprise seemed to hopelessly under a cloud.

Happily this obscuration was only temporary. The cloud has already broken. A few weeks ago, according to the New York Times, Dr. Caldwell, an Assistant Surgeon in the United States Navy, attached to the frigate Independence, stationed at Panama, made a private reconnoissance of the route in question which corresponds substantially with the dervations of the English Engineers, Gisborne and Ford, whose explorations Lieutenant Strain was despatched to verify. Dr. Caldwell reports that he "had no difficulty in following the track laid down by Gisborne from the Gulf of San Miguel on the Pacific to the summit of the mountain ridge of the Isthmus, and a point from which the Atlantic was clearly visible." It is hardly necessary to say that this is the track which the unfortunate Strain couldn't find, because, as is now certain, he went in an entirely different direction, floundering along the mountain furrows of the Isthmus instead of crossing them. Dr. Caldwell, like Gisborne before him, expresses the opinion that "a ship-canal is practicable, that the dividing ridge to be overcome is not much, if any, over one hundred and fifty feet in height, and that a canal only twenty-four miles long may be found amply sufficient." Thus the question of the feasibility of an inter-oceanic ship canal at Darien emerges from its eclipse to challenge once more the attention of the commercial world. We hope that it will now be definitely and authoritatively settled without the slightest unnecessary delay. The interests involved are at once so important and so universal that the world will not brook any further dallying with the problem. It should and must be promptly grappled with under circumstances that exclude all possibility of a failure. Its speedy and final determination is due not merely to commercial progress but to the spirit of the age.

We heartily second the suggestion of the New York Times that the Secretary of the Navy will render a public service and attract laurels to his own brow by resolutely attempting the solution of this question. "It will not require," our contemporary justly adds, "a large outlay, and the service can be well performed by a party of volunteers from our squadron now lying idle in the Gulf of A small expedition, well equipped and tle the question within three weeks after leaving the and always contains some racy matter.

deck of the Independence. That volunteers for such a service will be abundant need not be questioned; and Dr. Caldwell, who has earned the right to command the expedition, has given the best evidency of his readiness to lead. One surgeon in our Navy, at least, has made his fame immortal by contributions to scientific and geographical knowledge; and it perhaps remains to Dr. Caldwell to place his name alongside that of the lamented Kane. We submit that the Secretary of the Navy will earn the hearty approbation of the whole country by giving him the opportunity to try." Will the Secretary of the Navy voluntarily forego so rich a title to the public gratitude and applause?

DE QUINCEY ON THE CHINESE WAR. - The 'Opium Eater" has turned pamphleteer. The New York Courier and Enquirer, of the 23d iust., contains an analysis of a long-winded and elaborate pamphlet of his on the Chinese war which it received by the last steamer. The particular object of De Quincey in this performance is stated in the Courier's analysis to be to demonstrate the justice of the war. The task is not, in our opinion, a very difficult one, but it doubtless affords a fine field for the display of a keen and fertile intellect like De Quincey's, although we confess his essays on public questions heretofore have not struck us as especially happy. We have a vivid recollection of reading some years ago his disquisition on the gold question, and of thinking at the time that it deserved to be classed with Carlyle's miserable jargon a few years before about "Cuffy." It certainly was not much superior to it. The subject of his present effort, however, lies more within the sphere of his power, and is no doubt handled with greater practical force.

He maintains, according to the Courier's synopsis of his pamphlet, that the great objects of the Chinese in prosecuting the war are two, and two only; namely, a license, guaranteed by the British themselves to call them in all proclamations by scurrilous names; and the privilege of inflicting upon them, in the face of universal China, the foul indignity of a spiteful exclusion from the right of entering Canton, a right four times secured by treaty. In relation to the first of these extremely amiable objects, he dilates upon the enormous conceit and superciliousness of the Celestials, and argues that the starch ought to be taken out of them by force, as nothing else will answer the purpose. The spirit of aggression on the one side he conteuds is only nursed by the spirit of submission on the other. In this, under the well defined limitations of Christian morality, we heartily agree with him. The exclusion of foreigners from free access to Canton is no doubt, as he styles it, a traditional insult, and a flagrant violation of four separate treaties, the treaty of 1842, that of 1843, that of 1846, and that of 1847 all distinctly recognizing the right of foreigners to move freely in and out of Canton. In view of these repeated and solemn stipula tions, he very properly holds that this exclusion from the city amounts to a notorious and systematic degradation, which works most injuriously to British interests, not only at Canton but at all the other free ports. He also enlarges on the danger, among such a people, of suffering any one article of a treaty to be habitually broken, since the delinquency becomes contagious. The affair of the Arrow, which was the immediate occasion of the late breaking out of hoshated British, and, as a prcliminary step, to further degrade their national honor.

Upon the whole, Mr. De Quincey considers China in a state of general disintegration and decay, without vital stamina, or the slightest principle of selfrestoration. He clearly has no hopes for the Flowery Kiugdom, and not many good wishes, except what are logically involved in the success of the Brirish arms. We gather from the analysis in question no very high idea of the spirit of the pamphlet, but we can easily believe, as the analyst asserts, that it "has the marks of its strong-handed author on every page."

plied to Mr. Thomas M. Green, editor of the Frankfort Commonwalth, the enithet of "slanderer" The Commonwealth of Friday contains Mr. Green's reply, which is exceedingly interesting. We give the closing portion of it, and are rather curious to see what is to follow:

what is to follow:

We do not think ourself ohliged in our capacity as an editor or an individual to submit to such epithets—not because we feel ourselves compelled in honor to notice the remarks of such a creature as is the editor of the Yeoman, but simply because we are tired of the Thersites. This personal abuse of us must be discontinued, and how to stop it is the question. We have never before noticed the fellow since we became the editor of the Commonwealth, although he has frequently courted such condescension, and it is not now our purpose to engage in an editorial controversy with him. We have always avoided having anything to do with him. We have always avoided having anything to do with him editorially and do not now intend to hegin the intercourse. It would be folly to think of checking his vulgarity by replying in the same strain, for by that course we would lower ourself to his level; and, besides, his natural proclivities—highly cultivated—and long practice would give him a great advantage over us in this kind of a war. The weapons of the polecat, although not mortal, are such as to deprive the coubat of all dignity and honor. Nor can we, under all the previous circumstances of the case, think for a moment of creating public sympathy in hisfavor by caning him npon the streets. Such a course could not disgrace him any further than he has already been disgraced in the eyes of this community, and would but give the poor creature an excuse for using his brush against us.

But if he persists in thus wantonly assailing us in spite of a lounceforts to avoid any collision with him and the various manifestations of contempt we have exhibited toward him, if the censure of every decent man even in his own party will not induce him to ease his obscene language toward one who has done all in his power to avoid him, we give him fair warning that, if no other course will he effectual in checking the flood of his billingsgate, and he persists in thus pertinaciously villifying us, we will throw aside our scruples We do not think ourself obliged in our capacity as an ed-itor or an individual to submit to such contact.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

PORTLAND TELEGRAPH LINE. Office at Portland, Delime's Drug Store, on the wharf.
Office at Shlppingport, in the Canal Office. Office at Louisville, Durrett's Ciothing Store, corner Fourth and Water streets.

The river was at a stand yesterday with 7 feet 2 inches water in the canal and 4 feet 4 inches on the falls. Frequent and heavy showers have fallen during the last two days.

The Empress for New Orleans .- We need only remind those going Sonth that the Empress is commanded by Capt. E. T. Sturgeon. He is a guarantee that she will reach her destination safely. Passengers will find on her superb accommodations. Those who have traveled with Capt. Sturgeon need not be told that every attention is paid on his boat to the wants and comfort of all around him. The Empress arrived last evening and we were favored by her clerks with the latest dates.

The Empress, having been detained, will leave for New Orleans to-morrow evening.

For St. Louis .- The Fashion is the packet for St. Louis to-day. She is commanded by Capt. J. M. Martin, one of the most popular officers on the river. The Fashion arrived at Portland about 11 o'clock on Thnrsday night, making the trip in 52 hours. We thank Messrs. Smith and DeHart for copies of the nanifest and memorandum.

The W. A. Eaves leaves for Evansville this eve ning. The Eaves will remain in the trade. The paragraph in our paper of Saturday, stating that the Eaves would leave for Green river, was a mistake. It should have been the H. Bridges.

The Jacob Strader, Capt. Summons, is the mailpoat for Cincinnati to-day and the J. H. Done is up for Wheeling.

The John Gault, Capt. Gwathmey, arrived from fuscatine on Saturday. We are indebted to Mr. Mullen for a copy of the manifest. The Gault has er shingle out for Nashville.

The D. A. Given arrived on Saturday. She is also up for Nashville.

The Antelope has postponed her departure till to-

We neglected to mention in Saturday's paper that the steamer J. P. Tweed, which snnk some weeks ago at Portland, had been raised, and had left for Madison, where she is to be repaired.

The fine steamer Wm. Baird, Capt. Briscoe, will leave in a few days. She will come out beautified in may respects, having been undergoing repairs, stending her cabin, &c. Her destination is Memphis and way landings.

We are indebted to Mr. Stewart, of the Wm. Dickon, for a copy of the manifest.

We are indebted to Capt. Herron, of the J. II Done, and Dr. Dunning, the accomplished chief clerk of the Jacob Strader, for Cincinnati papers of vesterday.

Freights are not only scarce here, but at every point on the Western rivers. The Cincinnati Gazette says:

Capt. Williamson received information direct from New Orleans to the effect that not one hundred tons was in that city for the Ohio river, rates ruinously low, and the passenger travel at a very low ebb. The Vicksburg packets were lying up, and the Ohio boats not receiving enough to pay expenses. The Gibson and Tecumseh have been loading exceedingly slow, only receiving a few tons per day. The R. slow, only receiving a few tons per day. The R. .. Winslow, Mars, and Buckeye are all deserted, tilities, he regards as proceeding from nothing else to get a paying trip back. To Memphis there is not than a determination on Yeh's part to humble the a pound of freight offering. To St. Louis there is an a pound of freight offering. To St. Louis there is an exceeding scarcity.

The Maclay, Messenger, Gulnare, Kate French, and J. C. Fremont are loading for that port, the first three very slowly, indeed at the rate of one hundred tons divided between them, and no prospect of any improvement for the better. For Nashville there is not fifty tons in the city, with the Quaker City and Seventy-Six in port for that point, and the Swallow to arrive this morning. For Pittsburg there were, yesterday, the St. Louis, Moderator, and Delegate, and not over one hundred and fifty tons received on and not over one hundred and fifty tons received on them, while each boat's passenger list up to that port is very light.

LARGE ARRIVAL OF SPECIE.-The town was in funds yesterday. This amount is being transmitted to the mint at Philadelphia, under the care of Mr. Patterson, the agent of the Adams Company, who has frequently been entrusted with similar amounts of specie, and who has always honorably discharged his trust.

The same steamer brought $30,000 in gold to the Northern Bank and the Bank of Kentucky.

We cannot upon such a golden hypothesis prediate any ease in the money market; although we certainly ought to have that privilege.

STEAMBOAT LINE TO SUPERIOR CITY. - Two splendid low-pressure steamers, the North Star and the Illinois, are now plying alternately between Detroit, Saut Ste. Marie, Marquette, Copper Harbor, Eagle Harbor, Eagle River, Ontonegon, La Pointe, Bay Field, and Superior City. One of these boats leaves Cleveland every four or five days. Mr. H. H. The editor of the South, in attempting to describe the imbecility of an adversary, who happens to be a great admirer of Howell Cobb, says: The poverty of the Athenian edilor's genius is in the inverse ratio to the ardor of his admiration for Howell Cobb.

According to this, the Athenian editor's genius must be just about the richest in the land.

We have had much personal liking for the editor of the Somerset Democrat, and we really think he ought to have some for us. We feel constrained to say to him, that, if he cannot reply to playful paragraphs without resorting to offensive personalities, we have no further occasion for his paper at our

THE MAILS.—There is a screw loose somewhere along the Northern railroads. Passengers come through, but the mails do not. Can the Chicago postmaster or the mail agents on that route inform us how it happened that yesterday morning we received papers from that city of the 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, and 30th ult., when there are two daily trains between this city and Chicago? Can the Indianapolis postmaster or the local agent there inform us why the New York mail frequently lies over there? Can the Seymour postmaster or the agent there inform us why the Cincinnati mail sometimes lies over there: Some of these officials doubtless consider it immate rial when the newspaper bags are forwarded. We have been compelled to submit to these neglects under the former Administration, but we are very much mistaken in the present head of the Postoffice Department if he will permit these repeated neglects to go unnoticed by him. Mr. Brown is fully aware of the importance of keeping up the mail connec-tions regularly to Louisville. Not only the greatest portion of mail matter for our own State, but also Tennessee passes through the Louisville postoffice.

We must do the present Postmaster General the justice to say, that, since he has assumed the office, he has brought about great reforms; but much remains yet to be done. When the Ohio and Missis sippi Railroad Company arrange their new running schedule, we may allude again to this subject.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE .- A young man of steady habits and numerous correspondents, by the name of David D. Blakeman, 23 years of age, who taught school at Pleasant Grove, near Springfield, Ky., in the winter of 1855-'56, was seen in Danville on the 1st of April, 1856, since which time his friends can get no trace of him. He is well proportioned, 6 feet high, light hair, high forehead, blue eyes, and prominent nose. If any one can give the least information concerning him, it will comfort an afflicted mother and friends.

Stage and hotel proprietors will please examine their old way-bills, to ascertain what direction he went. Direct to Mary Blakeman, Uniou City, Branch county, Michigan.

NASHVILLE MANUFACTURING COMPANY BURNED OUT-Loss $100,000 .- The extensive iron manufacturing establishment owned by a stock company iu Nashville, was destroyed by fire on Wednesday night. After many years of laborious effort to establish itself, it had just begun to pay, and had at least $40,000 worth of work on hand, and one hundred and twenty mechanics constantly employed. The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary. It is estimated that the loss to the company will not fall short of $100,000. The company was insured to the amount of $32,500, as follows Tennessee Marine, $10,000; Etna, Hartford, $5,000; Farmers' and Mechanics', Philadelphia, $5,000; Quaker City and Girard Marine, Philadelphia, each $5,000, and Provincial, Toronto, C. FIRE AT CASEYVILLE, KY .- The large two-story frame building of Mr. J. M. Lamb, of Caseyville. was consumed by fire on the morning of the 23d, about 2 o'clock. The warehouse of Messrs. Buck. ham & Ackers, near by, and the stable of Col. Geo Simpson, took fire several times, but by the most untiring efforts of the citizens were saved. Mr. Lamb and family narrowly escaped with their lives; not being able to save even their clothing. Loss $3,000; no insurance.

DREADFUL MURDER IN TAYLOR COUNTY .- We have intelligence of a dreadful murder in Taylor county, which was committed on Tuesday night last, The victim was a respectable farmer named Henry Simpson, residing about eleven miles north from Greensburg. He had in his possession about $2,000. That day one of his neighbors, Mr. Roberts, a very elderly man, having $1,000, gave it in possession of Simpson, who was murdered and robbed. At the time his family were all absent.

A SKETCH OF FANCY .- Everything useful, ornamental, and elastic always commands attention, and we cannot neglect the elastic goods of every description for sale by our friend A. McBride, on Third street, near Walker's. He is agent for several manufacturers, and disposes of his goods at cheap rates and upon the most accommodating terms.

OREGON AND SLAVERY .- Although there are no slaves in the Territory of Oregon and but few blacks of any sort, it seems the people there are seriously discussing the question of organizing a State Govern ment which shall recognize and authorize slavery The Oregon Statesman, a leading and infinential journal of the Territory, conducted by a New England man, has the following: With the constitution will midorhiedly be submitted to the people separate provisiona, making it both a slave and free Stare, and whichever receives a natjority of the votes of the electors will thereby become a part of the fundamental law. Which of these propositions will be successful we cannot and care not to predict. The Cincinnati Enquirer says that Mr. Wise "is equally great on small and on great questions, and treats them all pretty much in the same style." This seems to be only a subtle way of saying that Wise is as small on great questions as he is great on small ones.

Stock Fair in Clarke.—The citizens of Clarke county held a meeting at Winchester on Monday last, and resolved to hold a Fair for the exhibition of stock next fall. Committees were appointed in every precinct in the county to make all necessary arrangements for carrying the resolution into effect.

TRIAL OF THE RIOTERS .- On Saturday, under a writ of habeas corpus, nine of the persons indicted by the Grand Jury as participants in the riot of Thursday, May 14th, were brought before Hon. Testimony was introduced, of which the following is a carefully condensed synopsis;

Gen Filcher and M. C. W. Field delivered their testimony which implicated no one.

James Kirkpatrick.—I aw Joyce, Randolph, Jones, and Priuce, early in the evening before the fence was broken down; Prince came to me and talked of murder and verice; he thought justice had not been done; Randolph and Joyce came over the jail fence, but policemen put them out; Jones and Randolph said they would invet he negroes, but did not want to hurt onybody; after the cannon was surrought into the yard and place before the door, Mr. Thomas and I consulted and agreed to cease a defense; I saw Joyce, and was present when the cannon was surrendered; he said: "They'll surrender the prisoners;" who fill said: "They'll surrender the prisoners;" the Hibb came up crying ont "fire the cannon," I spoke to him and he wanted me to go off and talk to him; I thought it was no time for that, and the party dispersed; Nick Bernar was very officions, and said to me: "Old fellow, you must give them up;" I did not see Jones, Joyce, or Prince; did uot see Randolph; libb spoke of firing after Joyce had spoken; Elston the detore cannon and Kirkpatrick at the marzle; Morris said should not fire as long as they sure he said the was no body hut d—d watchmen in the jail office; Bernar said: "Give them up, old fellow, or you will have to do it;" did not see Prince use any violence.

Dr. E. D. Weatherford—Canne down to the neeting of the connel; heard a report of pistols, and went to the jail yard; saw Morris sitting atride a cannon and Kirkpatrick at the marzle; Morris said should not fire as long as they could remain. I went into the jail; Mr. I homas said that one negro was gone (meaning one that had cut his inhoat; saw Bibb towards the close of time evening and he appeared to be keeping the people off; did not hear him say anything about hansing them.

J. A. Weatherford—Am a pollceman; saw Joyce, Prince, Randolph, and Malonder hete, and heard many others talking.

Standolph, and Maloney in the jail yard before dark.

C. W. Tiller-Was one of the police that guarded the jall on the occasion in question.

Ilarvey Section—Was at the jail, saw Joyce, Randolph, Prince, and Jones there, and heard many others talking, urging violence.

— Meadows—Heard Morris say there was hnt one time to do it (hanging the negroes) and that is now.

J. G. Balce—I saw and heard a great deal, but know very little; was at the jail yard before night; saw Joyce come over the fence, and nriged him not; a pollceman put him out; I followed him around to Maxwell's stable; conversed with him and appreciated his feelings; I told him the jail was strong and could not possibly be entered; Morriss then came up and said that he was a machanic and could unhinge anything about the jail; I thought that Joyce was made calm, when Morris said if yon have any blood now is your time; Joyce was alternately frienzied and same.

Mordecal ifoward—Am a policeman; saw at the jail yard Joyce, Prince, Randolph, and Morris; after dark saw lemar and Ribl; Joyce got over the fence and was put back; heard him say, "shoot, for I've nothing to live for anyway;" saw Prince trying to get over the fence near where Gen. Pilcher was, who said no man should come in unless over his dead body.

Thos. Reangh—Went down to the jail after the verdict was rendered; saw Irinee shving his finger at Pilcher, using exclanations I did not understand; heard handolph say he would stay there a week but that he would have them.

At this point Mr. E. S. Craig, attorney for the

At this point Mr. E. S. Craig, attorney for the Commonwealth, remarked that there was more testimony, but of the same substance already offered. He therefore declined introducing anything further. The witnesses for the defence were then introduced: Nelson Dorsey—Saw crowd and went down to jail; heard feuce break down and pistols fire; saw the negroes brought out; when the hanging occurred saw a man up the tree, who I could not recognize; I have known I saudolph since he was a child, and do not think it was him; if it had been I link i should have known lim; I saw but one man that I knew after dark; link I was not so much excited as the officers, and know about as much concerning the affairs of the evening.

I knew after dark; think I was not so much excited as the officers, and know about as much concerning the affairs of the evening.

J. A. Merrick—I board at Brown's hotel; saw Randolph in the parlor ten or fifteen minutes before the negroes were a man up in the tree, but do not believe it was Randolph; there are none of the prisoners who I could identify as being went are none of the prisoners who I could identify as being connected with the mob.

Theodore D. Thwaite—im a har-keeper at Brown's hotel; have known E4. Randolph fer two or three weeks; the evening of the mob saw him standing on the pavement in frout of the hotel, while the negroes were being taken ont; saw the negro who was hung on the first tree and the man up it; do not tilink it was landolph.

— Oldham—Heard Bibb say do not fire the cannon; all parties appeared excited.

Capt. Megowan—Things occurred as stated; went with Joyce to Maxwell's stable and expostulated with he and his friende; all were excited and violent; knowing Jones and Priuce invited them home with me to take supper; when the cannon was brought and placed before the jall door went up to it; Sam Morris sitting astride and heard him say, "you shall kill me," the balance could not hear.

Sandford Swindler—I came to the jail before the negroes were hung; saw Mr. Prince at the fence near Flith street when the two last negroes were executed, he remarked to me several times: "Let a go home."

James A. Murray—Saw Mr. Prince the night before the mob; he requested me to go with blm, that he might find Billy Green.

At this point in the testimony, the Attorneys for the defense offered to introduce evidence concerning the good character of the accused. Mr. Craig remarked that he was acquainted with most of them and knew their reputation as orderly, law-abiding

Judge Logan then entered npon a review of the Cincinnati, visited Covington on Saturday, when he entire evidence, condensing, collating, and systemtizing the whole in a very able ma marked that it did not matter who exactly hnng the negroes, but whoever gave countenance to the affair was equally culpable. During the rendering of the decision the connsel made several exceptions, and begged to be heard finally to-day. To this the Chancellor consented. He however admitted the following of the accused to bail in $500 each, with security in the same amount: P. W. Bibb. Nick Bemar, Trip Astes, John Letzay, and Thomas F. Upon application of Mr. Riley, who desired to make an argnment tending a legal point involved in the case, the Chancellor deferred his decision relative to Wm. Joyce, Lanrence Prince, Henry Jones, and Mr. Morris. These persons were delivered into the custody of the Sheriff, and Morris taken to prison. The others were placed under the patrol of their Attorney. With this, however, Judge Logan had nothing to do, and the Sunday Democrat errs very grossly in speaking of his having committed them to the custody of their attorneys.

There was very great crowd in the Chancery Court ooom, and considerable feeling manifested. But the clear, conclusive, and impartial summing up of the facts and the law in the case, by the learned Chancellor, quieted every mind.

From the Little Rock True Democrat we learn that Dr. David Dale Owen, of Indiana, has been appointed by Gov. Conway to make a geological survey of Arkansas. Dr. Owen will enter upon the discharge of his duties about the middle of October. by which time he will have completed the survey of Kentncky, in which he is now and has been for some time past engaged.

MONDAY EVENING, JUNE 1, 1857.

Sixty thousand dollars of the new cent, comprising six million picces, were paid out at the Philadelphia mint on Monday and Tuesday, and orders are still coming in from all quarters of the Union, even from the South and Southwest, where the old cent never obtained circulation—the lowest prices being graduated to the smallest silver coin. From present indications, the old cent will be hurried out of use. The Philadelphia Ledger says there are at present nine presses engaged in making the impressions upon this new coin; five mills are also in constant operation, forming the rim on the coin previous to receiving the impression. These last named machines are capable of making rims upon three various kinds of coin at the same time; at present, however, they are engaged upon the new cent exclusively. About one hundred persons in all are constantly engaged in the operation of the mint, and at the present time the whole force are employed on the "cent." Each of the presses throws off eighty-six finished coins per minute. At this rate, working from 9 o'clock, A. M., to 3 o'clock, P. M., the nine presses throw off each day the sum of $2,746 40 in cents; that is, providing the presses are kept going regu-

SPIRITUALISM .- There is a convention of Spiritualists in session in New York, composed of strongminded women and weak-minded men. One of the latter has discovered perpetual motion, or a machine which will in some mysterious way catch the motive power from some of the natural elements which surround us, and run without any expense for material to keep the power up. Another has a spiritual house which he constructs according to spiritual architecture, the human body being the model for this queer habitation—the ground floor being used for much the same purposes that ordinary dwellings are-the preparation of food; but the attic being set apart entirely for intellectual studies. This idea must have come from the spirit of some one of the luckless authors of the last century, who invariably followed their occupations in garrets, for the benefit of pure atmospere, undisturbed seclusion, and cheap rent. The character of the convention may be divined by the nature of the propositions presented for its consideration.

It is thought, says the Washington Star, that ex-Governor Jo. Wright, of Indiana, will be sent to Berlin, and the Hon. C. Murphy (ex-Member of Congress), of Brooklyn, N. Y., will go to the Hague, in place of Mr. Belmont.

The post-office at Rogersville, Madison county, in this State, has been discontinued.

Mr. Joseph Hackett, of this city, has been granted a patent for improvement in cooking stoves.

LATER BY THE AFRICA.

The steamship Vanderbilt arrived at Southampton The steamship vanderbilt arrived at Southampton on the 15th instant, having made the passage in less than ten days. She had on board 201 passengers. The V. encountered very foggy weather from New York to the S. E. edge of the banks of Newfoundland, and strong gales from N. W. to N. E., with high seas thence to the 11th degree of longitude. She passed an iceberg in lat. 43 deg. 45 min., long.

The U. S. steam frigate Niagara, in the service of the Atlantic Telegraph Company, arrived at Gravesend 14th inst. She was the object of universal attraction.

Lord Palmerston has recently made a speech in the House of Commons, in the course of which he

The House is aware that some months ago there occurred a very deplorable scene of violence and outrage at the Isthmus of Panama, that a quarrel began, nobody well knows how — some people say that it was a simple dispute between a passenger and that it was a simple dispute between a passenger and a native about a water-melon; but at all events it acted like a spark thrown upon a smouldering fire, which burst out into a flame; and the reciprocal dislike which had long been growing up led to acts of great violence and scenes of bloodshed which every-body must deeply deplore.

The United States Government applied for redress for the past and security for the future, but I among to say that the Government of New Greenada.

sorry to say that the Government of New Grenada, which is not particularly celebrated for accurate recollections of duties or performance of obligations, refused compliance with those demands. Thence arose the negotiations and communications between the United States and New Grenada Governments, which have not yet led to any satisfactory termination. e clear, I think, that that which is true in regard to private property is also true in regard to a government—that it has its duties as well as rights; regard to private property is also true in regard to a government—that it has its duties as well as rights; and the Government of New Grenada is bound to provide for security of persons and property passing along the railroad through its dominions. The excuse which it gave for refusing compensation to those who suffered by these excesses was, I think, to a certain degree, its own condemnation, because it alleged that the high-handed proceedings of the passengers for a long time before had created great exasperation, and it therefore was not wonderful that a slight cause should produce very considerable results.

Sucede of a General and a Commodore.—As a truly tragic episode of the Persian war, we have to mention the death, each by his own hand, of General Forster Stalker, commander of the forces, and Commodore Etheridge, of the navy. The verdict on Gen. Stalker's body was, that he came to his death from a pistol shot inflicted by his own hand in a fit of temporary insanity. There was no paper left to indicate this, and he was merely heard to complain that the 3rd cavalry was not given him; and was also uneasy about the responsibility of sheltering the European troops during the approaching hot the European troops during the approaching hot weather. The verdict on Com. Etheridge was, that he destroyed himself with his own hand while suffering under mental aberration, brought about by long continued anxiety connected with the duties of his

The Grand Duke Constantine at Paris .- The Times The Grand Duke Constantine at Paris.—The Times correspondent says: "If one is to credit, not all, but even half of what is heard from people who seem to have reason for what they say, the court is by this time a little disenchanted of its grand ducal visitor, and no very bitter tears would be shed on either side if the parting hour was to-morrow. Many little circumstances indicate, it is said, that, whatever favorable opinion his royal highness has, in common with every impartial man, of the intellectual powers of the Emperor of the French, he has no firm faith in the durability of the imperial regime. His imperial highness is thought to be rather abrupt and haughty to those with whom he comes in contact; rial highness is thought to be rather abrupt and haughty to those with whom he comes in contact; and a manner which may be suited to St. Petersburg, where, at the will of the sovereign, the highest dignitary may be reduced to the lowest rank, is out of place in a civilized and polite nation. An anecdote is now running the round of certain circles, which, though I do not guarantee its truth, still rests on fair authority. A person, having waited on the Grand Duke in his apartment on some business of the day, was received rather abruptly and addressed laconically with—'Parles hau, Monsieur, rite—et fintsoms.'"

The Russians in China.—The Moniteur de la Flotte says that the Russians are founding a great maritime establishment in the River Amoor, which they call Port Imperial. Two powerful batteries are being erected at this spot. The naval establishment of Port Imperial is to comprise factories, dry-docks, storehouses, powerful means of defence, and all the requisites for sheltering a large fleet.

Personal.—It is stated that Barnum, Gen. Tom Thumb, and "Little Cordelia Howard," have all met with signal failures in England, which is mostly owing, doubtless, to the sickness of Mr. Barnum.

The Hoosec Tunnel bill failed to pass the Masachusetts Senate over the Governor's veto, not receiving the requisite two-thirds vote. The vote was 21 yeas, 12 nays, and 7 absent or not voting. The day a parade of the Baltimore United Fire Departreasons assigned by Governor Gardner for his veto are his apparent disbelief in the practicability of the | timore exchanges give the following account of it: operation; the judgment he forms of public opinion, as to its impracticability, in consequence of the slight amount of stock taken up in Boston and upon the line of the road; the unequal relative position of the corporation and the State in regard to the couditions formerly imposed by the Legislature; the certainty that a work of this magnitude must become, if pursued, an absolute public charge; and the pres ent condition of the treasury, requiring retrenchment and reform, in conformity with the public demand, rather than the assumption of new and serious liabilities on the part of the State.

Michelet, in a treatise on "birds," tells the following story:

A lady, one of our relatives, who lived in Louisians, was suckling an infant. Every night her sleep was troubled by a strange sensation of a cold and gliding object which had been draining the milk from her bosom. On one occasion the same impression occurred, but she was awake. She sprang from her held, she called out, they because high from her bed; she called out; they brought a light, searched, and turned down the bed-clothcs. They found the frightful nursling, a serpent of large size and of a dangerous species.

THE SUPPLY OF COTTOX .- The discussions which are taking place among the Manchester manufactur-ers as to the feasibility of opening new supplies of cotton are of considerable interest in the United States in two points of view. If cotton of the best quality should ever be produced cheaply and in great abundance in British India, a fatal blow would be struck at slavery in the United States. The be struck at slavery in the United States. The other aspect in which the subject is important results from the large indebtedness of our country abroad. Our large annual importations of goods, our cuormous consumption of foreign iron, the immense amount of foreign capital we have used in the construction of our railroads, render it necessary that we should be large producers of some comme dity or commodities we can export and for which we can always count on a steady demand. we can always count on a steady demand. Cotton is precisely such a commodity, and the annual balance of trade would be fearfully against us if a competition in cotton growing should spring up in some quarter of the globe powerful enough to drive us from the market. The value of the cotton we now annually export is something like a hundred and thirty millions of dollars. We could not export this amount of any other agricultural product, even if we had it to spare, for there is no market that requires so large a supply. If we were to cease even if we had it to spare, for there is no market that requires so large a supply. If we were to cease to be exporters of cotton, it is difficult to see how the country could pay its debts.

In alluding to the supply of cottou we do not write as partisans; we only aim to state facts. An association is about to be formed among the Manchester manufacturers to be called "The Cotton Supply Association," having for its object the promotion of the growth of cotton in the dependencies of Great Britain, particularly in India. At one of the Manchester meetings, the opinion was expressed that the English manufacturers pay £10,000,000 per annum more for the cotton they use than would be annum more for the cotton they use than would be paid if cotton were produced, as it might be, in the British colonies. But, notwithstanding the attention which is given to the production of cotton else-where, we'do not expect to see the markets of the world supplied from any other source than the World supplied from any other source.

United States. No great success has, as yet, attended the experiments in cotton culture of the British in India, or of the French in Algiers. The French attempts are likely to prove a failure. We have no attempts are likely to prove a failure. We have no doubt the English will get large supplies of inferior cotton from the East. But this will not prevent the extension of the market of the United States.

The cotton crop will continue to be the great staple of our exports, and the slave population of the country is likely to be pretty much absorbed in its cultivation. We infer this from the fact, shown by the treasury reports on commerce and navigatiou, that our exports of cotton are largely increasing, both in quantity and value. This will appear from the following statement respecting the export of the last

IMMIGRATION TO THE UNITED STATES .- The report made to Congress by the Statistical Bureau of the State Department, showing the number of pas-sengers arrived in the United States during the year ended December 31st, 1856, has been printed, and fills about forty closely printed pages. The statisended December 31st, 1856, has been printed, and fills about forty closely printed pages. The statistics are arranged with the clearness and accuracy which have characterized all the statistical reports issued under Mr. Flagg's superintendence. The statements, compiled from returns made by collectors of the customs, set forth the number, sex, age, occupation of passengers arrived in the United States by sea from foreign countries during the year ended December 31, 1856, with the country in which they were born, the country in which they mean to reside, and the number that have died on the voyage. OUR FIREMEN ABROAD. - We have already chronicled the arrival and reception of the Mechanic Fire Company, of this city, in Baltimore. On Wednesment in honor of the Mechanic came off. Our Bal-

The day was warm and auspicious over head, but a strong wind prevailing blew great clouds of dust through the streets, and at times enveloped the whole line. At about three o'clock the procession began to move, and the following is the order in which the various companies appeared in the line: Chief Marshal R. A. McAllister, with aids, on horse-back; deputation of the Deptford company; Mechanical engine company; Liberty engine company; Inback; deputation of the Deptford company; Mechanical engine company; Liberty engine company; Independent engine company; Columbian engine company; Franklin engine company; Washington hose; Watchman engine company; Lafayette engine company; Western hose; the members of the Deptford, drawing the apparatus of the Mechanic, No. 1, of Louisville; New Albany Cornet Band; members of Mechanic, No. 1. The meat of the companies ware Mechanic, No. 1. The most of the companies were preceded by the various brass bands of the city. Flags were scattered and fluttered along the entire length of the line. That borne by the Mechanic co. was of satin and most beautiful workmanship. Upon the top of their engine was carried "that same old coon." amid a profusion of wreathes, and he seemed to enjoy the sport very sedately.

It was certainly one of the most beautiful demonstrations in honor of visiting firemen that has taken place in Baltimore for a long time, and reflected much credit upon all concerned. As the long line proved over the review many demonstrations of energial contents and the contents of the contents o moved over the route, many demonstrations of en-thusiasm attested the pleasure with which the fire-men of the South were greeted and welcomed to the Monumental City. Cannon were fired from the steeples of the Columbian and Deptford enginesteeples of the Columbian and Deptford engine-houses, a fine display of flags were also suspended in front, the hells of the companies merrily rung, whilst the ladies, especially in the eastern section of the city, showered bouquets upon the ranks as they

the city, showered bouquets upon the ranks as they proudly passed along.

At the intersection of South and Baltimore streets the Monumental Hose Company had stationed their reels and gave a salute of bells as the pageant passed. At the corner of Paca and Saratoga streets the Howard Engine Company had stationed their apparatus, and similarly saluted, as also did the New Market, at the corner of Eutaw and Saratoga streets. Along the entire line multitudes were gathered to witness the passage of the cortege, and many ladies in carriages followed in the rear. At six o'clock the procession reached Light street, and the companies were dismissed.

This evening the visiting company attend a ball, given in their honer at the New Assembly Rooms.

On Thursday, the American says: The visiting firemen were taken in charge and shown around the city until four o'clock in the evening, when they were taken to the engine house of Columbian, No. 9, and partook of a bouutiful collation gotten up by that company. After enjoying themselves until about half-past five o'clock, they started to their hotel, but were halted on reaching started to their hotel, but were natical on reaching the street in order to receive a most beautiful wreath, presented to the visitors by Mrs. Henry Mullin, The present was passed through the hands of Mr. John G. Wilmot and received by Robert F. Baird, Esq. Both addresses were neat and pertinent. The strangers then returned to the "Fountain," under the escort of the members of the Deptford and other companies. At nine o'clock they marched to the Deptford engine house, where a banquet worthy of the name had been prepared for them. This affair was got up in most superb style, nothing being spared which could add to its splendor or to its good cheer. The officers of many of our fire companies were present together with several members of the City Council, and a number of invited guests.

At about 10 o'clock the entire company sat down At about 10 o'clock the entire company sat down to the loaded tables. The first table was under the charge of Col. McAllister, supported by Mr. Jacob Green of the Independent. The second was presided over by Capt. Thomas H. Moore of the Patapsco, assisted by Mr. Thomas A. Cooper of the Howard. Wm. M. Starr of the United States had charge of the third, supported by Mr. Thomas Creamer of the Vigilant.

After the first regular toast was given, a magnificent silver speaking trumpet was presented to the cent silver speaking trumpet was presented to the Louisville Company by their hosts of the Deptford. The trumpet was presented by Col. John H. Ing and received by Robert F. Baird, of the Mechanic. The speeches were very appropriate and most enthusias-tically received throughout. The trumpet itself is a splendid piece of work, from the manufactory of Mr. Charles T. Holloway, and no description that could be given would properly describe it. It bears the inscription, "Presented to the Mechanic Fire Company No. 1, of Lonisville, Ky., on their visit to Baltimore, Md., May 28th, 1857, by the Deptford Fire Company No. 4" There is also a fine view of the Battle Monument classed on it. the Battle Monument chased on it.

F. Yeiser & Co., Fourth street, under the National Hotel, are now selling their rich and fashionable jewelry, fine watches, and diamonds at cost and 10 per cent. It is conceded by all that there has never been in the city a richer and more fashionable stock of jewelry than theirs; therefore pnrchasers will do well to examine their stock before buying elsewhere. m22 btf

TRY IT AND SEE.-If there is any person in the sion to test the virtue of Porter's Oriental Life Liniment, he should immediately purchase a twentyfive cent bottle and be convinced of its utility. For the cure of Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Sprains, Old Sores, Tetter, Rhenmatism, &c., it is the most popular remedy now in use, and is equally popular in diseases of horses. For the cure of Sweeny, Scratches, Stiff Joints, Cuts, Mogs, Swellings, &c., it is unrivaled.

The Oriental Life Liniment is put up in three different sized bottles and sold at twenty-five, fifty cents, and one dollar per bottle. Principal depot, 96 Third street, Louisville, Ky., and sold by dealers m28 i&bd&w everywhere.

We would invite the special attention of per sons, especially ladies, in want of the richest and newest styles of fancy dress goods and the best brands of staple goods to the stock at the store of G. B. Tabb, corner Fourth and Market streets. At this house can be found styles of goods not to be found in any other house in the market, which in point of beauty and elegance cannot be excelled. Ladies visiting our city will find it greatly to their advantage to give this house a call and examine the various kinds of goods before making their purchases. His stock of silk and lace mantillas is largest in the city, embracing a variety of new and desirable styles. His stock of silks, berege and grenadine robes, embroideries, and lace goods cannot be excelled by any Western house. He has also a large and well selected stock of cottonades, heavy cotton drills, plaid cottons, osnaburgs, &c., for servants. Call and examine the stock of this house before you make your purchases, and we feel sure in saving that you will be convinced that this is the house to buy good and cheap goods.

Corner of Fourth and Market streets.

There will be an adjourned meeting of the new military company forming in the upper end of the city at the Lafayette Hall, Monday evening, June 1st, to elect officers and to select a uniform. A full attendance is earnestly requested.

SECOND CONCERT AT THE RESCUE ENGINE House .- The first concert by the Lone Star Minstrels at the Rescue Engine House, for the bencfit of the Columbia Hose Company, on Friday night, drew a crowded auditory, and the music was very fine and gave universal satisfaction. The second and last concert will be given at the same place this evening. The preceeds, as we have already stated, are to be applied to uniform the Columbians for the celebration of the National Anniversary. The members of the company are mostly young men, who have not arrived at the age to enable them to meet the necessary expenditure for such an object. We bespeak for them a full hall. The occasion as well as the performances will be found worthy of it.

NATIONAL TRUNK EMPORIUM. CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STREETS, LOUISVILLE, KY.

I would respectfully invite the attention of merchants and others visiting the city to my large and elegant assortment of TRUKKS, which I am prepared to offer at least TWENTY-FIVE FIRE CENT. LOWER than any other establishment in the city. My stock of the combraces a greater variety of Trumks than is kept by any other house in the Western connery. Many of the styles are entirely new and cannot fall to please those in want of a trunk both as regards price and quality. The many advantages which I possess over the other houses in the city, such as manufacturing my own boxes, finishing my own leather, importing my own material, &c., enables me to offer my Trunks at much lower prices than any other establishment either in this city or Cincinnati. Merchants and others will be consulting their own interests by giving me a call before making their purchases. Orders promptly attended to.

Police Proceedings - Monday, June 1st .-The new month opens with a fair docket-apparently prolific of fees to the officers and attorneys.

Disorderly .- Sam Martin attacked and insulted Mrs. Walker in relation to a couple of children the court had bound out. They had previously been in the possession of a prostitute, and Walker it appears desired to return them to their former guardianship.

Theft .- Louisa Brown on Saturday evening went to the auction store of A. L. Williams & Co., on Market street, bought a lot of tablecloths, and then stole 231/4 yards linen and four handkerchiefs. She professed to have bought the goods of a peddler. Sentenced to receive twenty stripes.

Another Theft. - Hervey Tunstall, a likely negro man, was charged with stealing $1,040 from Harriet Wilson. She had that sum last January, all in gold, with the exception of $20 Kentucky money. It was proven that Hervey took a bag of gold amounting to $940 to Concy Logan's (f. m. c.) house, and afterwards removed it. Mr. George Ainslee testified to having assisted the accused to purchase himself, and that he had a bill of sale of him from Tunstall - that he had paid about $404 in all, most of which was wildcat money. The theft was proven, but being a slave he could only be punished with thirty-nine stripes.

An Abused Husband .- Charles Stevens returned home to his wife on Sunday, assaulted her with a knife, and, for the offence, John Thompson gallantly espoused woman's rights. The result was a terrible beating of Stevens, who appeared in court maimed, bruised, and deformed. Thompson was complimented for his chivalric defense of the lady and held to bail in $300 to be of good behavior for three months.

Drunkenness .- Patrick Scally and wife last evening arrayed two children in gaudy attire to join in the procession at onc of the Catholic churches. Before leaving for church Pat had sold, in violation of law, a sufficient quantity of whisky to Wm. Higgins to make him drunk. Thereupon II. was noisy, and Scally had him arrested. Bail in $300 for two months.

EXCURSION TO CINCINNATI. - The Mayor and members of the General Council will leave Jeffersouville to-morrow evening at six o'clock for Cincinnati, remain in that city Wednesday, and join the excursion to St. Louis Thursday morning, 4th

THE DAVID WILITE. - Messrs. Sherly, Bell, & Co. have kindly placed the following dispatch at our disposal:

CAIRO, Jnne 1. David White passed here this morning. Up Tuesday night. Leave Wednesday. A. McGILL.

The London Times contains an article on parliamentary reform. The gist of it is that parliamentary reform is at present more a parliamentary than a popular question; but that if Ministers do not take it up and deal with it, the parliamentary will be converted into a popular question, and, amidst the excitement, "the ground will be occupied with some huge, misshapen, irrational creature of misrule, too strong to be displaced and but a sorry substitute for correction."

Such as Indigestion, Acidity of the Stomach, Colicky Pains, Heartburn, Loss of Appetite, Deepondeney, Coctivenes, Blind and Bleeding Piles. In all Nervous, Rheumaric, and Neuralgic Affections, It has in numerous instances, proved highly heneficial, and in others effected a decided cure.

This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared onstrictly scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Professor, Boerhave. Because of its great success in most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was intended more especially for those of our fatherland scattered here at d there over the face of this mighty country. Meeting with great success among them, I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be accurately edged.

It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutious may have been impaired by the continuous use of ardent spirits, or other forms of dissipation. Generally instantaneous in its effect, it finds its way directly to the seat of life, thrilling and quickening every nerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and, in fact, infusing new health and vigor in the system.

NOTICE.—Whoever expects to find this a beverage will be disappointed; but to the sick, weak, and low spirited it will prove a grateful aromatic cordial, possessed of singular remedial properties.

CAUTION. The great popularity of this delightful Aroma has induced many imitations, which the public should guard against purchasing. Be not persuaded to buy anything clee until you have given Boerhave's Holland litters a fair trial. One bottle will convince you how infinitely superior it is to all these initiations.

NICARAGUA .- How Walker and his Men Escaped-The Famine at Rivas-Eating Mules, Horses, Cats, and Dogs .- General Henningsen, Colonel Titus, and one division of the army of Nicaragua have arrived iu New York. One of the reporters of the Tribune visited the former and derived some information in regard to the evacuation of the country by Walker. The reporter states:

regard to the evacuation of the country by Walker. The reporter states:

Since the last advices received here from General Walker, the allies made an attack on the intrenchments at Rivas with a force of 2,600 men. The assault lasted six bours, and was helly contested throughout. As near as could be assertained, the enemy lost 400 killed and wounded, including 30 phisoners taken by General Walker; one cannon belonging to the allies also fell luto the hauds of the fillbusters. Walker's total loss in this engagement, in killed and wounded, did not exceed 50 or 60 men.

From this time until thesecond week in April, when Gen. Mora arrived and assumed command of the allies, no offensive operations, to speak of, took place on either side. On the lith of that month 'the allied forces, led on, it was asid, by deserters from the fillbuster camp, made a desperate attack on General Walker's intrenhemts, and succeeded in gaining possession at one time of the lower plaza About one hundred and fifty had entered that portion of the town, when Gen. Henningson succeeded in bringing three gams to bear upon them, which mowed them down with great slaughter. About half of them escaped, and the remainder, being surrounded, were onliged to surrounder. After a good deal of hard fighting the enemy was finally repulsed, but not without contesting the ground inch by incb. One hundred and three prisoners in all remained in the hands of Gen. Walker after the fighting was over.

The hopes of the fillbusters were greatly sustained by the constant expectation of relief from Col. Lockridge and party, on the San Jaan river, who were daily looked for. Of conne no correct intelligence could be obtained respecting his situation and prospects, as all the avenues of approach from that quarter were in the lands of the allies. But, as day after day no news came from the San Juan, the garrison in Rivas began to despair, and were fast losing their spirite, when information was received that Capitain Davis, of the United States sloop-of-war St. Mary's, la walker's annunition.

Then, in view of the hopeless prospect hefore them, the design of retiring from the country began to be entertained. Meantime Captain Davis proceeded to the seat of war, and endeavored to urge the contending parties to come to terms. General Walker, after prolonged and painful consultation with his officers, concluded to enter into stipulations with Captain Davis, and he subesquently surrendered to him as an efficer of the United States Government. The allies were not named in the instrument. By a full understanding, however, the retiring forces were not molested by them—one of the Costa tican Generals attending Walker and his staff through the lines of the enemy, a hostage, as it were.

and his staff through the lines of the enemy, a hostage, as it were.

At the instance of Captain Davis, the women and children, numbering about seventy, were removed from the camp on the 20th of April. The formal capitulation took place on the 50th of the same month, and the troops set out on the march to San Juan del Sur on the 1st of May.

The whole number of Walker's men at the time of the surrender was four hundred and seventy-five, of these, two hundred and sixty, including officers, were effective; one hundred and seventy-five were on the sick and wounded list, and forty were natives.

Provisions had been exceedingly scarce during the whole month of April, and the men had lived chiefly on muleand horse meat nearly all the time. Dogs, cats, and other autmals were sometimes killed to furnish a novelty. General Henningson describes horse flesh as quite passable—when one can't get nothing better.

The enemy, the General states, had suffered much fron desertions and on the let of May could not have had more than two thousand five hundred available men about Rivallet hinks that, had General Walker held out two week longer, scarcely a sbadow would have beeu left of the allies

DLD SCHOOL GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

LEXINGTON, KY., May 29, 9 o'clock,
Dr. Scott, of Cincinnail, read the report of the committee on the narrative of the state of religion. Of 150 Preshyterics connected with this body, 110 had sent up accounts of the progress of religion in their midst; of them, 95 had made reports particularly encouraging, and 14 of the remaining reported as favorable as could be expected of the regions in which they were iocated.

The report was adopted, and recommended to be read in all the churches.

Dr. Moore, chairman of the Committee on Theological Seminaries, read the report of that committee. The number of students matriculated during the year in all the seminaries is 97—14 less than last year. The report contained nominations of Directors for the different seminaries, and recommended the election of a fourth Professor in the Danville Seminary. The report was adopted. Rev. Stephen Yerkes, Professor of Ancient Languages in Transylvania University in this city, was put in nomination for fourth professor in Danville Seminary, and the election made the order of the day on Monday at 11 o'clock.

The Committee on Systematic Benevolence reported that returns had been received from 24 Preshyteries, signifying that this cause was rapidly gaining ground among the churches, and was working well, resulting in increased contributions. The report was adopted.

The resolutions respecting the American Bible Society were taken up.

The motion of Judge Fine, to commit the subject to a committee of five to report to the next General Assembly, who was modified by the mover to a simple commitment to the next Assembly, without any committee.

The resolutions are as follows:

1. The American Bible Society has, by the terms of its constitution, no legitimate right to alter, in any way, the common and accepted standard English Scriptures, as they stood at the creation of that Society.

2. Concerning the said English Scriptures, the American Bible Saciety has full power to print and circulate them, and to collect and manage funds for those purposes. But it has no power to edit them—in any other sense than to keep them in the exact condition in which the standard English Bible stood at the formation of said Society.

3. This General Assembly and the Church it represents are, and from the beginning have been, warm and unanimous supporter of the American Bible Society. And it is in this sense we feel called on to say that we neither do nor can allow, on our part, of any, even the smallest, departure from the original principle on which that society was founded; and to express the settled conviction that the continued support of that society by the Preshyterian Church, depends upon the strict adherence of the society to those dear and simple principles.

4. The Board of Publication of the Preshyterian Church, depends upon the strict adherence of the society to those dear and simple principles.

FASHIONS FOR JUNE.

CLOSE OF THE FASHIONABLE SEASON. At last the spell is broken; the cold, gray clouds, which have enveloped us like a pall, have dispersed and the bright, glo ious sun asserted its supremacy. The whole site 1 and the bright, glo ious sun asserted its supremacy. The whole city begins to wear a changed aspect. The grass is green in the parks, the trees are leafing out rapidly, and, in the twilight, yourg children play carelessly and happily. But from Broadway the beauty and pride are fast disappearing, the belies of last season are nearly all married off, and most of them are on their way to Europe, while the few who are left console themselves with an occasional matine, and discuss plans for the approaching summer. These matinees have become very fashionable during the latter part of the past winter, and will doubtless supersede, with many, the evening parties, in which the late hours are a great objection. The time occupied is generally from 5 to 7; the house is closed and brilliantly lighted, as for the evening; the costumes are as light and elegant and the entertainment consists of music and dancing and refreshments in the usual order.

In a gloomy season there is something magical in the chauge from the cold, gray sky, the dull, leaden clonds, to the interior of splendid apartments glowing with light and warmth, echoing sweet music and filled with gaily-dressed fairies who flit about at their own capricious will, without the restraint imposed by a large and promiscuous assemblage. No wonder they like the matuies and coax all their newly-married friends to give them in turn.

they like the matinies and coax all their newly-married friends to give them in turn.

There is another kind of party peculiar to New York, which however is not very popular, it generally being considered a cheap way of paying off obligations. This is a "Caudle" party, not with any reference to the world-renowned lecturer of that name, but from some remote connection with a kind of respectable gruel used only by "old" families, and generally given to invalids in a state of convalescence. These entertainments are exclusively feminine, and also take place in the daytime. If the hostess owns a baby it is dressed up in state and sits in the arms of its nurse to help the mother receive her guests. The cards are issued in the ordinary way, excepting that the significant word Caudle ceive her guests. The cards are issued in the ordinary way, excepting that the significant word Caudle is written in one corner. It would be telling tales out of school to say what is done at these exclusive-perminne gatherings, but one of the important ceremonies is to hand round cups of rich caudle to each of the company; this, alas, constituting a principal way of the refreshment. Caudle parties are cipal part of the refreshment. Caudle parties are, however, at an end, and the last of the matinées takes place this week, and so we have absolutely nothing to do but discuss the merits of Newport and farmhouses, which last are getting to be decidedly the rage.

"GROSIELLE" MODES IN WALKING AND CARRIAGE DRESS.

The last imported novelty is in muslins, organ The last imported novelty is in musins, organ-dies, and jaconets, and consists of a new color which is just now the passion of the Parisian ladies, a pe-culiar kind of red called grostelle. It will wash per-fectly and is only contrasted with white, from which it stands out with striking effect. It comes only in t stands out with striking effect. It comes only in founced robes and stripes, sometimes accompanied by the laize de cote or side stripe which is now so fashionable. The price is moderate, not more than ordinary jaconet and organdie muslins, but it "takes" only among the most distinguished ladies in New York, common persons being afraid to ven-ture on anything at once so novel and so striking.

in New York, common persons being arraid to ven-ture on anything at once so novel and so striking. Lovely variations in grenadines and all kinds of summer tissues are also imported by each succeed-ing steamer, and the most experienced dealers say that Parisian manufacturers have surpassed them-selves this season in the beauty and novelty of their designs. The newest styles of barage robes are all made with grenadine flounces, some forming a per-fect imitation of honiton, while the grenadines have silk flounces woven in brilliant chem or chintz patterns or sometimes rich satin stripes so wrought into the body of the material as to enhance rather than lessen the chances of its durability. Elegant flounces are composed of three plain stripes one inch flounces are composed of three plain stripes one inch and a half in width in silk, satin, or a mixture of chenille in some brilliantly or strikingly contrasting color. These are each edged with fringe of the same shade as the centre of the robe and form a succession of bayadere stripes in serials which is very attractive on these light and delicate fabrics.

For walking and carriage dress, owing to the very cool weather, rich silks have only as yet made their appearance, but these are really superb in their new combinations. They are also very thick, heavy, and lustrous, something like those old brocades of which it was the boast of our grandmothers that they stood alone. Indeed the genuine, old-fashioned brocade is revived again with a splendor of effect not dreamed of a hundred years ago. One of the newest and most beautiful robes is called the "Marie Stuart." It has a centre of rich drab chent taffettas, with a side stripe of brilliant plaid in white searlest and green bereitered with rotal parameters. taffettas, with a side stripe of brilliant plaid in white, scarlet, and green, bordered with royal purple with distinguished effect. A robe of black taffettas had two flounces, each in two parts; the one was a gay colored Scotch plaid edged with fringe, to which was attached the second part, consisting of a plain wide stripe of purple silk, also terminating in fringe. The double skirt and the side stripe are altogether superseding the three flounces that have been in vogue so long.

Very ladylike and striking styles for walking dresses are small black and white or brown and white check patterns with double flounces of bright Scotch plaid or the latze de cote or side stripe in the Scotch plaid or the latze de cote or side stripe in the ittern, ic ty of the central part of the robe. These small checks in fine summer poplin or linen are universally worn for traveling costume, the dress and full circular being the most convenient that could possibly be imagined and quite complete.

A very curious and unique design in rich robes was observed the other day in a first class house, which had just been received, and was said to be the only one in the city. It was called "l'Imperiale," and the center was composed of that peculiar shade of lavender of which the Empress Eugenie is said to be so fond. The two lower flounces are of the ordinary depth, and had three figured bayadere stripes in depth above the content of lavender that the content the in darker shades of lavender than the ground; the are bordered with rich chent roses, mingled with light foliage. The upper flounce is deeper than the lower ones, and is designed altogether in brilliant chem flowers, seperated into longitudinal stripes, in brighter colors, and still more gorgeous pattern than the border below. The most natural idea would have been that the deepest and especially so striking a flounce should have been placed at the bottom of the skirt, but the design of the maker is seen from the fact of the lower ones containing a greater num-ber of breadths, and the effect is easily seen to be much more novel and distinguished. The report that hoops were about dying out was never apparently farther from being realised than it present. Many ladies wear them larger than ever, and a new, exceedingly light steel spring "skeleton" with the "adjustable bustle," which has just been issued by Douglass & Sherwood, has cre-ated a furore. It is called the "peri," and certainly leserves its name.

one is two-thirds the depth of the skirt and the lower one one-third, and, without corsage, cost $500. Point lace sets in exquisite designs have also been received; the collars small and square, with minute pearl edges, and very wide bands for sleeves, executed to a degree of wonderful perfection. One of the most attractive patterns was a harp hanging against a vase; another was wrought in alternate flat and round points very curiously. These were $100 per set, comprising only the small collar and sleeve bands.

Hosiery is imported as fine as point lace, one pair of which will pass through a lady's ring. Last season the open work and embroidery were in comparatively large patterns; this spring they are as minute and delicate as it is possible to make them.

Parasols which have so far been superfluous are beginning to be inquired for, and are found to be injust as progressive as any other part of famals ward.

bossed border, edged with a fringe also brown and bossed border, edged with a fringe also brown and white, with a deep heading and made into loops, so as to preserve the edges from the rough, ragged appearance so often observed. The inside is lined with a rich drab taffetas, with a flowered chem border, and scalloped edge, and the parasol is completed by a richly carved ivory handle, at a cost of $7. Bonnets for this month retain all the peculiarities described in practical letters.

Bonnets for this month retain all the peculiarities described in previous letters. As yet summer modes have not made their appearance on the promenade, although the season for trade is considered nearly over, the reason being the exceedingly cold and stormy weather. A few days since an opening of superb French hats took place, of which one specimen may be given. This was a very costly chip, with an insertion of deep, corn-colored silk between the edge and the central part. The crown was sloping and had an oval piece of the same material inserted in the center and surrounded by two terial inserted in the center and surrounded by two bands of chip, edged with a fine cord of corn-colored silk. Attached to the outside edge was a sweeping fall of lace, which encircled the bonnet, shading the deep curtain behind. The ornaments on the outside were ribbon and a full, long summer plume, made offine, corn-colored chenille, tipped with marabout, an entirely novel decoration. Around the made of fine, corn-colored chenille, tipped with marabout, an entirely novel decoration. Around the edge of the front was a fall of rich white Chantilly lace, with fine points, which drooped over the inside ruche, and to which were attached little pearl bugles with drops of jet which tonched the forehead. This also is a new feature and is very becoming. Beside this the only other inside trimming was a bow and long ends of groselle velvet. The price was $45. In mantles there is very little of novelty that has not previously been described. The "May Flower" is a large shawl circle with a drab center composed of a handsome material which looks like uncut velvet. The upper and lower parts are of white foun-

A pretty shawl circle is made for young ladies, and intended especially for watering places, of fine pale buff linen, trimmed with five graduated rows of white linen braid. To this a pointed hood is attach-ed, gathered at the throat and ornamented with two handsome silk tassels. These are very pretty, light, cool, and in addition cheap, which is a desideratum at such a time as the present, when all kinds of goods rate enormously high.

A new compound perfume which has been imported by Keger & Co., of this city, for the purpose of giving a pleasant odor to the wardrobe, which it also preserves from the attacks of moths, is creating quite a sensation. It is called "Khus-Khus," or hitivort and in a receive of India grass which, when bitivert, and is a species of India grass, which, when throwing off the moisture after a shower of rain, fills the whole surrounding air with its odor. This is compounded with flowers and put in elegant blue satin bags ornamented with silver fringe, and is growing rapidly in favor with our most fastidions elegants. They have also a Spanish powder, which is said to work almost fabulous effects upon the skin, producing that pearl-like transparency which is so much an object of ambition with the modern belles. It may be deployable, but it is true, that four-lifths of the young and fair daughters of fashion strive to heighten natural charms by the aid of foreign ma-

LECTURE.—According to previous announcement, George D. Prentice, Esq., the distinguished editor of the Lonisville Journal, delivered a lecture in this place on Friday evening last on the "Aspect of American Politics." We will not attempt to give a synopsis of it. Suffice to say, it was one of the most eloquent, truthful, and chaste speeches we ever heard. In it the speaker sustained his worldwide reputation of scholarship and a thorough knowledge of events present and past. His audience was one of the largest ever assembled in town, combining beauty and intelligence. 'The speaker gave unbounded satisfaction to those who heard him, and his audience listened with the profoundest attention. We wish his patriotic lecture could be heard in every town in the country.

The banquet given at the Richmond Rotel after the lecture was a bijou of an entertainment. The table was elegantly and bountifully spread with all the delicacies of the season. The worthy host and hostess, Mr. Francis and lady, on this as on all other occasions did things up in the most approved style, and deserve and received the cordial thanks of all who participated at the supper.

LOUISVILLE CHANCERY COURT.

William 11. Kearney and others plaintiffs, against John S Sullivan, defendant. William II. Kearney and others plaintiffs, against John S. Sullivan, defendant.

The plaintiffs, on the 12th of May, filed their petition in which they allege that on the 12th of April last they purchased the steanner Statesman with the view of running her as a packet between Louisisville and Henderson, and pisiniff Kearnby advanced for defendant Sullivan the amount of the cash payment for one-eighth of the boat, and defendant thus became a part owner, and it was agreed that Sullivan should have command of the boat for a few trips, until one of the plaintiffs should become qualified to take the command, and then defendant should he mate; and further, that defendant had been overbearing and harsh further, that defendant had been overbearing and harsh tother, that defendant if for the command of a packet with them, and was not fit for the command of a packet with them, and was not fit for the countand of the countand of the packet with them, and was not fit for the runned if Sullivan were continued in command. They therefore prayed that Sullivan be enjoined from commanding the boat until further order of the court. The injunction was granted as prayed for.

The defendant filed his answer to the petitiou, denying order of the court. The injunction was grained as pasylor for.

The defendant filed his answer to the petitiou, denying ail the charges of bad cenduct brought against him, and averred that by the contract he was to have command of the boat until one of the plaintiffs (Ronse) should becommand, and then he was to be mate of the boat, and that Rouse was not yet qualified to command the boat, and that he had declined a desirable berth on another boat to accept the command of the boat, and would, if he were removed, be thrown out of employment and greatly damaged.

At the time of filing his apparent the defendant's counsel.

boat, and that he had declined a desirable berth on another boat to accept the command of the boat, and would, if he were removed, be thrown out of employment and greatly damaged.

At the time of filing his answer, the defendant's counse rave notice that he would move to dissolve or modify the injunction granted by the court; and thereupon the cours set the trial for this day, 30th May. Upon the trial quite a number of affidavits were read on each side.

Chancellor Logan, affer the counsed had read the affidavits and made their arguments, said in substance—that if the plaintiffs had violated any contract with defendant about the command of the boat to his injury, they would be liable to him in damages upon proper proof. But that they undoubtedly had the right to remove him from the command for very slight canse; and that it would be contrary to common sense, as well as law, for him, when he only owned an interest of one-eighth in the boat, to hold command in spile of the plaintiffs, who owned the other seven-eights. He was merely their agent. Even if it had been the agreement that he should command for a specified leugth of time, yet the court would not enforce that agreement, whether the plaintiffs were willing or not—whether the defendant was fit to command or not. The owners of a boat are liable for the acts of the captain or master, done in the line of his duty, and he is responsible to them. But the question of who shall command a boat, is one in which others are interested besides the owners and master.

The Polynic are interested. They entrust their lives and property to the care and keeping of the master, who wields an aimost dispoit power during the voyage. It is the interest, as well as duty, of the owners that the will observe the Revenue laws, &c., &c.

The public are interested. They entrust their lives and property to the care and keeping of the master, who wields an aimost disfinition, therefore, to do so, inasmuch as they are readened to the command of the powers should be at hiberty when they t

NEW SCHOOL PRESBYTERIAN GEN. ASSEMBLY CLEVELAND, May 28.
When the report on the records of the Synod of Kentucky was presented, a question arose which excited quite an animated debate. It was, whether an elder, or ciders, are indispensable to a quorum at the regular meeting of a Presbytery or Synod. H. K. Ciark, Esq., of Detroit A. A. Gubrie, of Putnam, O., Rev. J. B. Wallace, and other, participated in this debate. Finally, it being inderstood that the question should be presented to the Committee on Church Polity, the Assembly proceeded to hear other reports. CLEVELAND, May 28.

Gutbrie, of Putnam, O., Rev. J. B. Wallace, and others, participated in this debate. Finally, it being understood that the question should be presented to the Committee on Church Polity, the Assembly proceeded to hear other reports.

The Synod of Mississip 74.—When the Assembly reached this Synod, which is the last on the hill, and a report approving its records was presented. Rev. Mr. Lockwood proceeded to read from Mr. McLean's speech at Buffalo, sentences in which he was reported to have said, in substance, that he and the members of the churches in Missisippi held slaves for gain. Mr. Lockwood also read the action of one of the Preshyteries of the Synod of Missisippi (Leximpton South), in which it declared that its members were "slaveholders from principle and choice," &c.

Mr. Lockwood's speech and readings produced quite an excitement, showing that there are snouldering fires here which it only needs a spark to kindle to a hereer conflagration. While the question of postponement was pending, the hour of adjournment arrived.

Arev. Mr. White of Tenu, arose and said, I know that I am excitable, and therefore I try to keep a special gnard inpon myself. Though there are but 27 commissioners from the South, I have confidence in my Northern hrethren, that they will treat urfairly.

From the first introduction of the subject of slavery, there has heen manifested by some members of assembly a disposition that I bave regretted to see. I am opposed to laving these Mississippi hrethren on the altar as your first victime. You will not lack victims. We of the South will not deny our sentiments. Though I am hy birth 8 Northern man, I have Southern principles. We do not stay in the South from mercinary notives. I receive only $200 a year. Mr. White said, in reference to the extracts read by Mr. Lockwood. Reporters often make mistakes, and that report was taken from the Independent, whose editors take up collections for Sharpel-rifles on the Sabbath.

Rev. Mr. Painter of Teun, a venerable looking old man, offered the fol

And whereas, the Presbytery of Lexington, Sonia, has folwarded to this Assemby a memorial, containing the following words.

"There are ministers of this Presbytery who are slave-holders—holding slaves under the belief, that, according to the Bible, it is right—and also nearly all the ruling elders of the Churches under the care of this Presbytery are slaveholders, helieving it to be, according to the Old and New Testameut Scriptures, right." While offering no qualifying explanations of their language, the Presbytery have assumed the responsibility of sustaining such ministers and elders in their position, this Assembly is constrainted in the exercise of its "power of warning and hearing testimony against error in dottrine or immorality in practice in any Church, Fresbytery, or Synod, to disapprove and condemn the position which is thus assumed by the Presbytery of Lexington South as one which is not only unscriptural, but utterly opposed to the convictions of the Church, and calculated to mar its peace, and scriously hinder its prosperity, as well as bring reproach upon our holy religion.

The Assembly do hereby call on the Presbytery of Lexington South to review and rectify their position; and in case the Presbytery shall neglect to comply with this request, the Synods of Mississipi are directed to take cogalzance of the case at their earliest convenience.

In presenting this substitute, Judge Carter said:
By the previous action of the Assembly, and the recent action of this Presbytery, we are brought fairly to an issue. I want the Assembly to exercise its constitutional power. I do not desire that that power should be greater, nor would I wish it to be less. I have no meat-are disposition in regard to my Southern hrethren. I do not want to cut them off, but I want them to understand that I cannot not meet their views on this subject.

Rev. Mr. Dickerson, of Kentucky, said:
I prefer this substitute to the original report. It brings the true issue hefore us, and I am in favor of meeting it now. lowing words:

now.

After further dehate, the hour of adjournment having arrived, the debate was arrested, and Mr. Guthrie has the floor to-morrow morning.

The Louisville Democrat, which had a word of justification for the mob about the Ward trial, has been laboring for two years to prove that the edi-tors of the Louisville Journal were defenders of mob law. How perfectly futile are all its efforts, when it is known that the Journal condemned the Ward mob, and by the personal exertions of Mr. Prentice a great deal was done to allay the election riots of '55, and that the recent demonstration in Louisville received the unqualified condemnation of the Journal Louisvil nal. Upon all occasions, and under all circumstances, the Journal has been the defender of law and order, and it is due to that paper from its cotemporaries in that city to state the truth when they speak the Journal in this connection.
